ENG 123 Freshman Composition II (1 high school credit and 3 college credits)

ENG 123 serves as a continuation of ENG 113. Exercises will strengthen college-level writing skills through a comprehensive evaluation of scholarly sources. A related goal is to cultivate enhanced analytical capabilities. Class lessons will highlight the interaction of fictional devices employed in the creation of meaningful themes, and interdisciplinary inquiries will clarify socio-cultural factors that shape the development of authorial worldviews. Literary studies provide substantive opportunities to view people, places, and situations from an informed perspective. Reading a text from a Christian point of view encourages an internalization of genuine truth, and such knowledge enables an individual to function as a more effective witness for Christ. Prerequisite: ENG 113.

Class Delivery Method: Course content will be delivered online through Toccoa Falls College under the direction of the course professor. Students will meet weekly in the TandemEDU classroom with a TFC certified facilitator. The facilitator will present the upcoming assignments, foster class discussions, proctor tests, record speeches, review writing assignments and assist with technology issues. The facilitator will also tutor students outside of class when such assistance is requested through TandemEDU administration.
